“It is so important for children to learn the difference between ‘snitching’ and ‘reporting,’ and to feel comfortable talking with adults about what they see others dealing with and what they are challenged with personally.

This book is relevant, gives practical scenarios, and holds the reader’s attention.”

My Name's Sammy, and I'm No Snitch

Jeff Tucker, Illustrated by Miranda Morrissey

Sammy wants you to know he's not a tattletale or a bigmouth. And he's definitely no snitch!

No matter what he sees, Sammy stays silent. When his best bud sticks a wad of gooey gum under a desk, Sammy doesn't spill the beans. When someone sneaks off with a cupcake, he doesn't tattle. After all, he's no snitch and proud of it.

But will Sammy stay tight-lipped when a good friend is bullied and targeted for a beatdown after school?

My Name's Sammy, and I'm No Snitch is a realistic and riveting tale that teaches young readers the difference between snitching and reporting, and helps them understand why the slogan "see something, say something" is meant to keep everyone safe.

JEFF TUCKER is a licensed professional counselor who provides mental health services to students of all ages. Jeff is passionate about education, promoting mental health in children, and social justice issues. He is an avid reader and writer who believes in the power of books to help children thrive. Jeff lives in Louisiana with his spouse and their spoiled dog, Dixie. My Name's Sammy, and I'm No Snitch is Jeff's debut picture book, with more Chicorée Elementary Stories for Success to follow!

Miranda Morrissey holds a bachelor's degree in both fine arts and graphic design. She lives in Wisconsin.

"This book is both cute AND practical for teaching our students about when to alert vs. when to ignore or problem solve. 'Is someone unsafe? Can the problem wait? Does the problem involve you?' are perfect questions to teach students. The examples in this story are SPOT ON, as are Diamond's responses! Diamond Rattle Loves to Tattle would be an excellent addition to any elementary counselor or teacher's library!"

Diamond Rattle Loves to Tattle

Ashley Bartley, Illustrated by Brian Martin

Diamond Rattle loves to tattle, she's been telling on others for years.
She's quick to glide up to her teacher's desk and tattle on all of her peers!

This adorable tale is the story of an elementary-aged rattlesnake amongst a classroom full of other elementary-aged animals. The problem? Diamond LOVES to tattle. And when she tattles, her rattles glow and grow! Her tattling tendencies are affecting her friendships – so much so that her peers are avoiding her and she finds herself eating lunch alone. Fortunately for Diamond, her caring teacher Ms. Crow is there to teach her more about problem-solving, staying out of others' business, and the difference between a report and a tattle. Will Diamond be able to control her snitching snake tendencies? Find out in this charming tale from debut author, school counselor, and mom Ashley Bartley. Written for K-5 students.

ASHLEY BARTLEY, MEd, NCC is a school counselor whose writing has been published in The Joyful Life magazine and on the Kindred Mom blog. She earned her BA in psychology from the University of Virginia and her MEd in school counseling from the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, VA, where she grew up. She also has a diploma from the Institute of Children's Literature and is a National Board Certified Counselor. She lives in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley of Virginia with her husband and three young boys. Learn more at www.counselorstation.com.

Herman Jiggle, Go to Sleep!

Julia Cook, Illustrated by Michael Garland

It's the nightmare of babysitters and parents everywhere!
Being asked countless off-the-wall questions as you put a child to bed.
And every answer only causes more silly questions and more delays.

This is the dilemma Herman Jiggle's mom confronts as she tries to coax her son to wash his face, brush his teeth and go to bed. But Hermie is a curious kid who wants answers to the great mysteries of life, such as why do we have bubble gum and how do cows see in the dark, before he'll even think about falling asleep.

Herman Jiggle, Go to Sleep! is author Julia Cook's comical take on bedtime routines and how a good night's rest is key to every child's success.

Making Friends is An Art! 2nd Ed.

Julia Cook with K.D. Smith, illustrated by Bridget A. Barnes

Brown pencil uses his own strengths to be a good friend.

This second edition of Making Friends Is an Art! is an inspirational friendship tale that follows a colored pencil named Brown. Multi-talented Brown is the luckiest pencil in the box! In this story, he learns that in order to make and keep friends, he needs to know how to be a good friend. Brown must find a way to share his many talents with others. At first, that seems hard, but soon Brown realizes that to be a good friend, all he has to do is be himself! And to share all his special talents, like listening to others, being trustworthy, honest and kind, and having fun.

“... my absolute favorite book about friendship. The main lesson of this book is that ‘To have good friends, you need to be a good friend.’ The author also points out that ‘you can’t expect the other colors to like you if you don’t like yourself.’” – Heather, blogger at schoolcounselingconnection.com

But I Need Your Help Now!

A story teaching how to get an adult’s attention, and when it’s okay to interrupt

Bryan Smith, Illustrated by Lisa M. Griffin

Isaac is impatient... and a little rude.

When he needs help, he wants immediate assistance. When he has questions, he wants instant answers.

Isaac never waits his turn and does whatever he feels like to get an adult’s attention, including hollering at his teacher and seizing the shirttail of a store clerk. Watching him interrupt others is a masterclass in bad manners and embarrassing behaviors. And it’s not just his lack of patience and poorly timed interruptions that cause chaos. He mistakenly stays quiet during an emergency when an adult’s attention is desperately needed. The result is a yucky, sickening mess.

In the pages of But I Need Your Help Now!, young readers learn valuable lessons about how to wait their turn, stop blurting out in the classroom and, when necessary, interrupt the right way.

This is the first title in the Stepping Up Social Skills series.

Fix It with Focus

A Story about Ignoring Distractions and Staying on Task

Bryan Smith, Illustrated by Lisa M. Griffin

Focus. Focus. Focus. That's the advice Blake frequently hears but fails to follow.

Blake stumbles from one mishap to another because of a complete lack of concentration. He carelessly demolishes a Lego volcano in his rush to look out a window. A baseball bruises his elbow (and ego) because a dirt clod takes his focus off the game. And he ends up all wet when he interrupts his own story to do something foolish.

Can using strategies such as manipulatives, work/brain cycle, and glove taps help Blake maintain focus and strengthen his concentration muscles?

Fix It with Focus adds another entertaining lesson to our Executive FUNction series, written for K-6 students who need a helping hand to learn self-control or manage ADHD.

It's My Way or the Highway

Turning Bossy into Flexible and Assertive

Julia Cook, Illustrated by Kyle Merriman

Cora June is B-O-S-S-Y! She stops her teacher's boring assignments. She dictates the games people play at recess. She even objects to family dinners.

If Cora June doesn't get her way in the classroom, on the playground or at home, she makes life miserable for those around her. Will anyone put the brakes on her outlandish demands? Will Cora June ever realize that she can be a leader, but still be flexible? Or that there's a difference between being assertive and being bossy? See what lessons are learned in this thought-provoking tale about the benefits of not always getting your way. It's My Way or the Highway is the first title in an exciting new book series, The Leader I'll Be!

The Great Compromise

Julia Cook, Illustrated by Kyle Merriman

Cora June and her classmate, Wilson, are locked in a battle of wills.

Each one desperately wants to be the ultimate decider. They scream at each other about whether to play dodgeball or soccer at recess. They get into a tug of war over a Popsicle. Each wants to dictate where to go on the next class trip! Can these two opinionated, wanna-be leaders compromise or agree to anything?

Using rhymes and relatable situations, this story offers valuable lessons about the power of compromise and why the best leaders are never afraid to negotiate. The Great Compromise is the latest addition to the The Leader I'll Be! series by award-winning author and education expert Julia Cook.

He's Not Just Teasing!

A book about the difference between teasing and bullying

Jennifer Licate, Illustrated by Suzanne Beaky

A tale about the fragile friendships of upper elementary and middle school kids and their willingness to stand up for others.

Malcolm has a problem, and his name is Joe. Malcolm is often the target of good-natured ribbing because he's an excitable scatterbrain. Malcolm knows the jokes and laughs at his expense are all in good fun and sometimes even teach him a lesson. But the snark coming from Joe isn't funny.

Joe taunts and bullies Malcolm. When he attacks, Malcolm's friends do nothing. They are silent bystanders, and Malcolm is left to wonder why. Can he find the courage to ask them for help, or will Malcolm have to stand up for himself?

THE FREDDIE THE FLY BOOK SERIES

A book series celebrating children who demonstrate good character.

Freddie the Fly: Truth or Care

A story about honesty, caring, and using your social filter

Kimberly Delude, Illustrated by Brian Martin

Our friend Freddie the Fly stirs up a hornet's nest of trouble with his brutally candid opinions. Freddie doesn't understand how anyone could be hurt by his honesty. After all, isn't he supposed to be truthful no matter what? It's not until Freddie tries to earn his Truth or Care Patch in Bug Scouts that he discovers what his opinions have been missing – kindness. See how Freddie takes the sting out of his harsh opinions by being more considerate and caring.

Speech-language pathologist Kimberly Delude proves once again that children (and bugs!) can successfully navigate tricky social situations. In this tale, readers learn how to speak their truth with kindness and compassion.

“Great storybook for kids on cultural diversity. Loved the pictures and the writing. It shows kids the importance of respecting differences and discovering different foods and customs. A definite must-buy for all kids!”

Everyone's Contributions Count

Bryan Smith, Illustrated by Lisa M. Griffin

When it comes to group projects, Amelia has little time for anyone's input. She knows her ideas are best, so she smugly takes the lead and all the credit. But Amelia's high-handed attitude puts her on the receiving end of cold shoulders and icy stares. Maybe going solo in a group effort isn't such a good idea?

With help from a caring teacher, Amelia begins to see why it's important to recognize and accept the contributions of others. Will this new perspective be enough to undo the hurt she's caused and make her want to be a team player? Award-winning author and school counselor Bryan Smith adds another insightful tale to his popular Without Limits book series.

Pause Power

Learning to stay calm when your buttons get pushed

Jennifer Law, Illustrated by Brian Martin

Uh-oh! Gabe is losing it again. See all those big, bright buttons popping up all over his body? They come out whenever someone or some situation gets under his skin. And they pop up ALL THE TIME.

Push this button and Gabe starts fighting. Push that button and Gabe starts yelling. Push any button, and Gabe overreacts, gets mad, makes poor choices, and lands in trouble. What he really needs is a reset button! In this clever tale, written by a debut author and experienced school counselor, young readers learn how to use PAUSE POWER to reset their mindset, calm down, and stop losing control when others push their buttons.

Middle School Misfits: The Stained Glass Tree

Leona Lugan, Illustrated by Kyle Merriman

With her country accent, clothes that are far from cool and an odd, funny-to-pronounce family name (that earns her a terrible nickname), Jilly feels like an outcast. Can she find a way to fit in while still being true to herself? Independent readers and middle school students will relate to the challenges and joys that Jilly and her schoolmates experience in this timeless tale about facing your fears and making new friends.

“Welcome to your new nightmare, Jillyan. Please tell us what color underwear you have on today?”
My new teacher might as well have asked that question on my first day at my new school. Don't teachers know how hard it is for new kids to stand up and talk in front of an entire room full of kids they don't even know?

But What If They Had... A Social Studies, Social Skills Card Game

120 discussion cards for large or small groups that combine history with interpersonal skills

David S. Young, EdS and Erin Green, MS

But What If They Had... is a card-based activity for junior high and high school students that recalls major events, people and inventions in world history and assesses the social skills, character traits, and feelings of individuals living in those times.

Many students can benefit from these frank discussions of life skills, peer relation issues, character education traits, manners and politeness, and related topics. This activity adds a more human and personal element to historical events that helps students connect with these events while reminding them of the importance of mastering life skills.

RJ's Compilation Audio CD

This compilation CD features ALL SEVEN of Julia Cook's RJ stories. Ideal for elementary and special education teachers who want to introduce and reinforce the skills of listening, following directions, accepting no, disagreeing appropriately, making an apology, asking permission, working as a team, sharing, staying on task, asking for help, accepting feedback, and using your social filter.
